

Choco

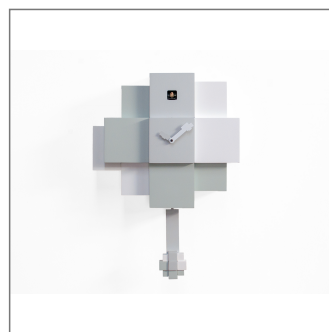

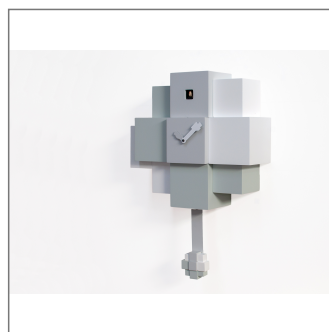

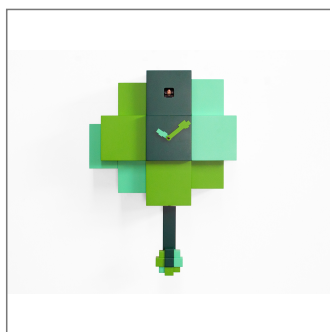

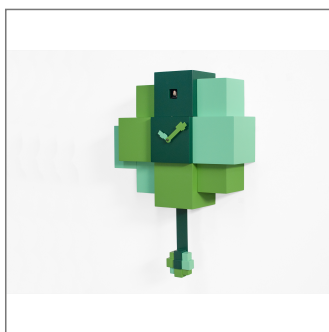

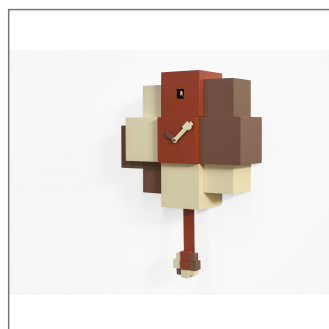

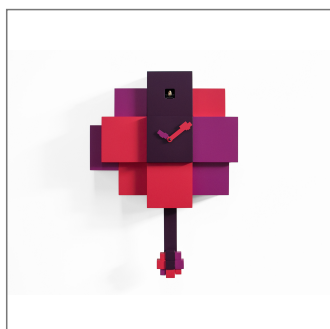

mod: 2475

design by Giorgio Scorza Priano

Choco is a family of cuckoo clocks designed by Giorgio Scorza Priano, and characterized by a blocky shape inspired by chocolates, inspiration for the colors is in fact taken from some delicious flavours such as pistachio and cremino, with three different tones per version. The shape is simple but refined in every detail, with an obvious interplay between full and empty spaces, projecting parts and cubic elements. Both the hands and the pendulum are reminiscent of the form and colors of the central body. Made from wood and painted with non-toxic paints. The cuckoo movement, of high-quality German design and battery powered, contains a photosensitive sensor that stops it from making a sound when it is dark, while a keypad allows you to adjust the intensity of the sound or turn it off altogether.

Pictures

Dimensions

